Preconference on “INDUSTRY ACADEMIA & CAREER OPPORTUNITY”

Efficient and regular interaction among Industry partners and Academic organizations used to be the backbone of scientific and technological growth in developed countries. Unfortunately, in India, these two have been operating in separate domains for long, not benefitting from each other's expertise and thus hindering the economic and technological growth of the country. A new adaptive academic curriculum and the active participation of Industrial partners may boost the Indian educational system and may lead the new economy globally.
